

ACADEMIC SHOWCASES

The Collections at the University of Vienna

CLAUDIA FEIGL (ED.)

Bibliografische Information der Deutschen Nationalbibliothek:

Die Deutsche Nationalbibliothek verzeichnet diese Publikation in der Deutschen Nationalbibliografie; detaillierte bibliografische Daten sind im Internet über <http://dnb.d-nb.de> abrufbar.

Cover illustrations:

Main image: Models of different crystal formations (from the mineral collection at the Department of Mineralogy and Crystallography)

Photo: Claudia Feigl

Small image: Plaster cast of Hermes with the boy Dionysus from Olympia (marble), c. 320 BC (from the archaeological collection of the Department of Classical Archaeology)

Photo: Claudia Feigl

© 2016 by Böhlau Verlag Ges.m.b.H & Co. KG, Wien Köln Weimar
Wiesingerstraße 1, 1010 Wien, www.boehlau-verlag.com

All rights reserved. This work is copyright protected. Any utilisation outside the strict limits of the copyright law is forbidden.

Translators and translation editors:

Daniela Beuren, Denis Bostock, Catherine Danner-Jones,
Cus Kenyon, Susanne Ofner, Michael Reiterer

Cover design: Michael Haderer, Vienna

Typesetting: Michael Rauscher, Vienna

Printing and binding: Theiss, St. Stefan

Printed on chlorine- and acid-free paper

Printed in the EU

ISBN 978-3-205-20064-2

THE COLLECTION OF WOMEN'S PERSONAL PAPERS

In summer 2015, the Collection of Women's Personal Papers at the Department of History contained 220 contributions comprising the estates and pre-estates of 358 persons. The backgrounds of the writers were varied: They were teachers, farmers, authors, housewives, servants, aristocrats, factory workers, school or university students, actors, doctors' assistants, milliners, artists, athletes. Other women include a butcher, a miller, a photographer, a dentist, a tour guide, a translator and an ambassador. The writers are women of all ages, they come from urban or rural settings; also included are family members, friends and acquaintances, which is why documents written by men are also part of the Collection of Women's Personal Papers. While hardly any of them were at the centre of public attention, all of them wrote and left various self-narratives.

Regarding content and material properties, these written legacies are as varied as the individual life stories of the women. In the collection, the written documents included in their estates and pre-estates are archived, made accessible and ready for use as sources for research purposes. The archive is continually utilised for a wide range of academic projects and in university teaching. The documents serve as sources for a great variety of issues of historical and cultural interest. Also, the various materials may influence genre discussions and attributions with regard to auto/biographical documents, which primarily used to be classified and evaluated according to criteria applied in literary studies.

The collection is continually expanded through calls for contributions in the course of research projects, by cooperating with other archives and by gradually supplementing the existing pre-estates and estates. Currently, prominent areas of research are love letters and diaries.

Fig. 1: Portraits of Hedl Zdansky and Marianne Mayrhofer

The material has been precisely registered on individual stock sheets. In addition, a systematic catalogue containing a short description of each item, as well as a register of documents and a register of places was established. Currently the catalogue lists 784 volumes of diaries and similar records, 810 other documents in book form such as agendas, household books or poetry journals, around 37,600 items of correspondence, approximately 35,600 photographs, some 3,970 official and business documents, 101 autobiographical texts and twelve literary estates. 99 contributions additionally include small commemorative objects, such as decorative ribbons, medals, so-called Jewish badges, needlework samples, children's shoes, jewellery boxes, etc. The estate of the welfare association "Vienna Settlement" also forms part of the collection.

Most of the documents in the collection originate from the late 19th and first half of the 20th centuries. All in all, the time frame extends over three centuries: The earliest piece is a business document dating from 1738, and the most recent additions are parts of an exchange of letters and e-mails which ends in April 2011. Geographically, the collection focuses on the area of what is now Austria; however, quite a number of contributions come from the former crown lands under the Habsburg monarchy and its neighbouring countries. The collection includes documents from all continents.

Fig. 2. Portraits of women whose pre-estates or estates are included in the Collection of Women's Personal Papers, from left to right: Mirni Hübner, Rosina Kalowa, Hertha Bren, Martha Teichmann

As an academic institution, the Collection of Women's Personal Papers is an example of the shift of focus that has occurred in historical studies over the past few decades, towards Women's and Gender History and auto/biographical research, which is becoming increasingly varied. Owing to its main interest in collecting pre-estates and estates of all women, rather than just the members of a certain occupational category or social group, political movement or party, the collection is unique in Europe.

The Collection of Women's Personal Papers was initiated in 1990 by Edith Sauer (1942-2011), Professor of Modern History and doyenne of women's and gender history in Austria. It was started to mark the anniversary of 70 years of votes for women in Austria, when a call to contribute biographical records as part of an exhibition was published in a newspaper. Jointly directed by Edith Sauer and Christa Hämmerle, Associate Professor of Modern History and Women's and Gender History, the collection was established and expanded at the Department of History over the following years. In 2000, the collection was organised as an association; from 2006 to 2012 it was part of the research platform 'Repositioning of Women's and Gender History in an Altered European Context' at the University of Vienna, through which a part-time position for the academic supervision of the collection was financed. In 2013, a permanent part-time position was created at the Department of History for that purpose.

Address:
 Sammlung Frauennachlässe (The Collection of Women's Personal Papers)
 Institut für Geschichte (Department of History)
 University of Vienna
 Universitätsring 1
 1010 Vienna

Further link (in German):
<http://www.univie.ac.at/Geschichte/sfn>

Fig. 3 From left to right: Katharina Maierhofer, Erna Rentmeister, Use Monika Lindenberg, Bernhardine Alma

Further reading (selection):

Gerhalter, Li: with the collaboration of Brigitte Semnack: Bestandverzeichnis der Sammlung Frauennachlässe am Institut für Geschichte der Universität Wien, 2nd expanded edition, Vienna 2012.

Gerhalter, Li: Auf zur eigenen Dokumentation von Erinnerung! Feministische Archive für auto/biografische Dokumente als Schnittstellen von Erinnerungspolitik und Forschung. In: Womens: Museum Frauen: Museum – Curatorial Politics in feminism, education, history and art | Politiken des Kuratorischen in Feminismus, Bildung, Geschichte und Kunst Eds. Elke Krasny and the Womens Museum in Merano, Vienna 2013, pp. 285–295.

Gerhalter, Li: Geschichten und Voraussetzungen. Die Bestände der Sammlung Frauennachlässe am Institut für Geschichte der Universität Wien. In: Unsere Heimat. Zeitschrift für Landeskunde von Niederösterreich 81 (1/2010), pp. 27–41.

Gerhalter, Li: Decisions and Chances – the Winding Path of Women's Personal Testimonies. The Collection of Women's Estates/Sammlung Frauennachlässe, Vienna. In: Women and Minorities: Ways of Archiving. Ed. Kristina Popova, Marijana Piskova, Margareth Lanzinger, Nikola Langreiter and Petar Vodeničarov. Sofia/Vienna 2009, pp. 20–34.

Hämmerle, Christa: Fragmente aus vielen Leben. Ein Portrait der 'Sammlung Frauennachlässe' am Institut für Geschichte der Universität Wien. In: L'Homme. Europäische Zeitschrift für Feministische Geschichtswissenschaft 14 (2/2003), p. 375–378.

Hämmerle, Christa: 'Und etwas von mir wird bleiben...'. Von Frauennachlässen und ihrer historischen (Nicht)Überlieferung. In: Montfort. Vierteljahresschrift für Geschichte und Gegenwart Vorarlbergs 2 (2003), pp. 154–174.

Hämmerle, Christa: "... vielleicht können da einige Briefe aus der Kriegszeit bei Ihnen ein ständiges Heim finden." Die "Sammlung Frauennachlässe" am Institut für Geschichte der Universität Wien. In: Briefe – Tagebücher – Autobiografen. Studien und Quellen für den Unterricht. Eds. Peter Eigner, Christa Hämmerle and Günter Müller, Vienna 2006, pp. 132–139.

Hämmerle, Christa: Nebenpfade? Populäre Selbstzeugnisse des 19. und 20. Jahrhunderts in geschlechtervergleichender Perspektive. In: Vom Lebenslauf zur Biografie. Geschichte, Quellen und Probleme der historischen Biographie und Autobiographie. Ed. Thomas Winkelbauer, Horn/Waldhofen a.d. Thaya 2000 (= Schriftenreihe des Waldviertler Heimatbundes 40), pp. 135–167.

Saurer, Edith: "For Women, the Act of Writing – whether Letters or Diaries – Expresses their Identity, their Life's Ambition, the Will to Survive". Interview Kristina Popova with Edith Saurer. In: Women and Minorities: Ways of Archiving. Eds. Kristina Popova, Marijana Piskova, Margareth Lanzinger, Nikola Langreiter and Petar Vodeničarov. Sofia/Vienna 2009, pp. 16–19.